

TIMES-VIRGINIAN

IN THE HEART OF THE DARK TOBACCO BELT
APPOMATTOX, VIRGINIA

ESTABLISHED 1892

CALVIN H. ROBINSON, EDITOR AND PUBLISHER
Member Virginia Press Association

Entered as second-class matter at the Post-office at Appomattox, Va., under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.
Address all correspondence to The Times-Virginian, Appomattox, Va.
Subscription Rates: $1.50 per year, 75c six months. Payable in advance. Advertising rates upon request.

THE BOMBINGS MUST GO ON OVER GERMANY

As the prospect of a military defeat approaches, the German mind will turn itself to the problem how to liquidate the situation and make a peace with eyes on another bid for world conquest twenty years from now. To that end, a German policy of weakening the smaller states in Europe will be vigorously executed. Presuming that the Allies will weaken Germany at the post-war peace conference, the Germans will seek to weaken the smaller states: not under her control while they are still under her domination. Therefore, a ruthless extermination of Jews, of business leaders and economic resources of Norway, Denmark, Belgium, Holland, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, France, Finland, and Poland, Yugoslavia, the Czechs, and Latvia still under Hitler may come. Given an actual start at serious extermination, the Germans will figure that Germany can rebound more quickly in a general war than the smaller buffer states. A maximum weakening of the buffer states will be the German aim. The smaller states will be a sure guarantee against whatever may be done to her at the peace conference. Apparently the best way to deal with the smaller states is to make them a part of the German empire. The smaller states will be a sure guarantee against whatever may be done to her at the peace conference. Apparently the best way to deal with the smaller states is to make them a part of the German empire.

THE MOSCOW CONFERENCE

With the rising sun of victory already beginning to illuminate their banners, the United States, Great Britain and Soviet Russia, as the nucleus of the United Nations, will meet in conference in Moscow, the last of their common enemy and to explore the ground for the foundation of the post-war world. There have been many conferences during this war, though always between only two of these three big powers. The first was the Moscow conference at which plans were worked out for mutual support in military operations which saved each of them from separate defeat and turned the tide against the would-be conquerors. But this is the first conference among the three of them, and even though it is only a preliminary meeting to pave the way for a conference between the heads of the three Governments, it is still the most crucial that has taken place. It will decide whether the war is a common enemy and to explore the ground for the foundation of the post-war world.

The outlook for the conference is auspicious. The armies of the United Nations are advancing on all fronts and the enemy is being beaten on land, on sea and in the air. The enemy coalition has been broken. Italy an original Axis partner, is a declared war against Germany. And the rest of the European nations are making readjustments to prospective Allied victory which might turn into a landslide that could bury Hitler. Portugal has already granted the Allies anti-submarine bases in the Azores and is preparing to meet any German retaliation. Spain has changed from Axis "non-belligerence" to "strict neutrality," the reported result of her "value division" from the Russian battlefront would knock the last prop from Hitler's propaganda against belligerence. The conquered nations are stirring with revolt, and all Germany's satellites can be counted upon to take the first advantage to leave Hitler's sinking ship. Moreover, through the Atlantic, from Peninsular Enterprise.

It did not work that way. The German connected the idea that their army was not really beaten, since their country had not been invaded. It was considered merely that the civilian population had given Germany could prepare more than enough. If they get a compromise of peace, they would get so many gains out of the war they would probably call it a victory, in spite of all their terrific losses.

They are encouraged by the fact that that line of conduct seemed to work in the first World War. At that time the American, British and French people were so tired of war and its burdens, that they called off the dogs before the Germans were completely beaten. The Allies would be punished, the Germans would be punished, and the Allies would be punished and behave themselves.

It did not work that way. The German connected the idea that their army was not really beaten, since their country had not been invaded. It was considered merely that the civilian population had given Germany could prepare more than enough. If they get a compromise of peace, they would get so many gains out of the war they would probably call it a victory, in spite of all their terrific losses.

They are encouraged by the fact that that line of conduct seemed to work in the first World War. At that time the American, British and French people were so tired of war and its burdens, that they called off the dogs before the Germans were completely beaten. The Allies would be punished, the Germans would be punished, and the Allies would be punished and behave themselves.

It did not work that way. The German connected the idea that their army was not really beaten, since their country had not been invaded. It was considered merely that the civilian population had given Germany could prepare more than enough. If they get a compromise of peace, they would get so many gains out of the war they would probably call it a victory, in spite of all their terrific losses.

They are encouraged by the fact that that line of conduct seemed to work in the first World War. At that time the American, British and French people were so tired of war and its burdens, that they called off the dogs before the Germans were completely beaten. The Allies would be punished, the Germans would be punished, and the Allies would be punished and behave themselves.

It did not work that way. The German connected the idea that their army was not really beaten, since their country had not been invaded. It was considered merely that the civilian population had given Germany could prepare more than enough. If they get a compromise of peace, they would get so many gains out of the war they would probably call it a victory, in spite of all their terrific losses.

They are encouraged by the fact that that line of conduct seemed to work in the first World War. At that time the American, British and French people were so tired of war and its burdens, that they called off the dogs before the Germans were completely beaten. The Allies would be punished, the Germans would be punished, and the Allies would be punished and behave themselves.

It did not work that way. The German connected the idea that their army was not really beaten, since their country had not been invaded. It was considered merely that the civilian population had given Germany could prepare more than enough. If they get a compromise of peace, they would get so many gains out of the war they would probably call it a victory, in spite of all their terrific losses.

HOME TO WHAT?

An American Legion campaign for the teaching of American history is based on the premise that "if we are to have a home front, we must have a home front." The campaign is based on the premise that "if we are to have a home front, we must have a home front." The campaign is based on the premise that "if we are to have a home front, we must have a home front."

Much of the Legion's agitation may be traced to the failure of education to teach American history in many primary and secondary schools, and even in the colleges. The facts were brought out in a survey of 1942, showing that 82 per cent of the colleges did not make American history a required subject.

In April of this year, the Times discovered by questioning 7,000 college freshmen that the secondary schools had sent them to college, and the colleges had received them, without even a fair rudimentary knowledge of the history of their country.

The trouble, it seems, started in 1924, when the superintendent of schools at Denver took up a suggestion of Teachers College, Columbia University, and substituted courses in American history and geography. From this infestation the plague spread through the schools of the country, with the result as disclosed by the Times.

The 12,000 posts of the American Legion should carry this fight for instruction in American history to every community in the country. Where the schools are failing, they must be put back on the course charted by the country's great men, and there will be no question about what the survivors of this war are going to do to advance their country to the Winchester School.

Don't forget to make sure that the very necessary precaution of having drops put into the baby's eyes at the time of birth, prescribed by law in most states, is carried out. Winchester School.

Registration for War Ration Book Number Four next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the public schools. Take your Ration Book No. Three with you.

New car auto tires are getting scarce.

Bring your country produce to Appomattox.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933 of the Times-Virginian, published weekly at Appomattox, Virginia, for October 24, 1943.

Before closing a wound, wash your hands thoroughly with soap and water. With a clean cloth or piece of cotton and alcohol, wipe from edge of wound outward. A girl can enter the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps at a younger age than boys should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

Each Nurse Corps Cadet helps send a graduate to the front. Army and navy nurses are conscientious officers and receive pay, allowances, and insurance according to army and navy pay schedules.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

Before closing a wound, wash your hands thoroughly with soap and water. With a clean cloth or piece of cotton and alcohol, wipe from edge of wound outward. A girl can enter the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps at a younger age than boys should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

Each Nurse Corps Cadet helps send a graduate to the front. Army and navy nurses are conscientious officers and receive pay, allowances, and insurance according to army and navy pay schedules.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

After her wartime service, the trained nurse will find need of her services, helping to handle problems of disease, malnutrition, and war shock. Her profession offers many types of career in the post-war world: administrative, educational, industrial, public health, institutional, and community organization, with pay that on the average is better than that of women in other professions.

Young women between 17 and 35 who are high school graduates and who would like to become nurses should go to their local hospital for information or write to U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, Box 84, New York, N. Y.

Town Meeting In Come-Back

Old Institution Given New Polish; Used to Solve Modern Problems.

NEW CASTLE, IND.—This city has blown the roof off the old town meeting, given it a new polish, and is using it to solve modern problems of government, community training and youthful delinquency.

A few months ago the public-spirited citizens of the town, feeling that the old town meeting was out of date, decided to give it a new polish. "It used to be that people could get together and thrash everything out on the spot," they said.

The specific problem of the moment was a proposal for an improved gymnasium. Advocates wanted it built so New Castle could hold an annual sectional basketball tournament. They were blocked by the town council.

Town Hall is Revived. New Castle Chamber of Commerce men concluded that the only way to get things done was to in-form all the people of all the aspects of a problem, and let public opinion take its course. After a while, the principle of the old town hall was revived in an amazing fact.

In this county alone and in it's sister counties, there are more than 500 representative organizations. These organizations are the backbone of the community. They are the backbone of the community.

Meetings of the entire community of 15,000 persons were out, obvious. But a survey was made of all the organizations—social clubs, service organizations, professional groups, political clubs. The possibility that everyone in Henry county must be going to at least one such organization was revealed in an amazing fact.

In this county alone and in it's sister counties, there are more than 500 representative organizations. These organizations are the backbone of the community. They are the backbone of the community.

Meetings of the entire community of 15,000 persons were out, obvious. But a survey was made of all the organizations—social clubs, service organizations, professional groups, political clubs. The possibility that everyone in Henry county must be going to at least one such organization was revealed in an amazing fact.

In this county alone and in it's sister counties, there are more than 500 representative organizations. These organizations are the backbone of the community. They are the backbone of the community.

Meetings of the entire community of 15,000 persons were out, obvious. But a survey was made of all the organizations—social clubs, service organizations, professional groups, political clubs. The possibility that everyone in Henry county must be going to at least one such organization was revealed in an amazing fact.

In this county alone and in it's sister counties, there are more than 500 representative organizations. These organizations are the backbone of the community. They are the backbone of the community.

Meetings of the entire community of 15,000 persons were out, obvious. But a survey was made of all the organizations—social clubs, service organizations, professional groups, political clubs. The possibility that everyone in Henry county must be going to at least one such organization was revealed in an amazing fact.

In this county alone and in it's sister counties, there are more than 500 representative organizations. These organizations are the backbone of the community. They are the backbone of the community.

Meetings of the entire community of 15